State Again Thankful to Mississippi

WASHINGTON (AP)—Personal income in Arkansas increased 75.1 million dollars from 1955 to 1956 but Arkansas still ranked 47th in per capita income among the 48 states, the Census Bureau reported today.

The bureau's figures showed Arkansas with a 1956 per capita income of $1,008 compared to $1,071 the previous year. Only Mississippi ranked lower both years in the tabulation, which also included the District of Columbia and Hawaii.

Mississippi's per capita income increased from $977 to $994.

Dalaware's $2,658 was the highest per capita income in the country last year, 38 per cent above the national average.

Total personal income in Arkansas in 1956 reached $1,974,000,000 compared to $1,903,000,000 in 1955.

Personal income nationally reached a record 324 billion dollars for an average of $1,940 for every man, woman and child before taxes.

Previous Census Bureau figures showed that only seven states collected less in state taxes per capita than Arkansas.

State taxes in Arkansas the last fiscal year totaled a record 125 million dollars, an average of $98.90 per person.

In per capita income, Indiana almost hit the national average with $1,046.

Wisconsin to Name a New Senator

By ARTHUR BYSTRÖM

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Wisconsin voters choose a successor to the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy in a special election today with both major party candidates predicting victory.

Favored to win in a state that has not sent a Democrat to the U. S. Senate in 25 years was three-term Republican Gov. Walter Kohler Jr., a firm supporter of President Eisenhower.

The supporters of Democratic candidate William Proxmire, however, could see nothing but victory for their nominee, who has been defeated in three tries for the governor's post—including two beatings by Kohler.

The stormy, 10-year career of McCarthy, who died May 2, was expected to have little bearing on the outcome. A McCarthy vote as such appears to be almost nonexistent. The election is for the remainder of McCarthy's term which ends in January 1959.

Phillips Nash, Democratic state chairman, predicted flatly that Proxmire would win, contending there was disagreement among Republican party people.

The race between Kohler and Proxmire apparently tightened recently due to heavy campaigning by both candidates, but a Proxmire victory would be considered an upset.

Todd Once Gave Data to Confidential

By JACK LEFLER

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Movie producer Mike Todd once gave information to Confidential magazine, a defendant in the criminal libel trial involving the scandal publication has testified.

Fred Meade, chief collector of Hollywood scandal for Confidential and Whisper, dropped Todd's name into the trial record yesterday.

Todd, husband of actress Elizabeth Taylor, joined an impressive list of celebrities who already had been mentioned during the first three weeks of the trial.

Meade, former operator of Hollywood Research, Inc., testified that writer Hal Conrad of New York had persuaded Todd to confirm story material. The story was not identified.

In New York, Todd denied the statement and said he actually had tried to stop the magazine from using the material.

Todd said through a press agent that he "wouldn't know Meade if I fell over him and I aim to keep it that way." He added: "Conrad called me regarding a story he had about a Hollywood tycoon who holds no love for me. He seemed to have the story in such detail that he must have gotten it from one of the principals."

"Seeing that I couldn't talk him out of the story, I did succeed in talking him out of naming the person who bore the brunt of the story, even though this tycoon is not exactly a member of my fan club and vice versa. This, is anyone's book, even to a scandal magazine, could not be construed as informing."

U. S. to Take Up Admitting Red Newsmen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today the United States would consider on its merits an application from any Chinese Communist newsmen to come to the United States. Red China has demanded reciprocal treatment if 24 American correspondents are permitted to enter that country as authorized by the State Department last week.

This Dulles asserted, although it did not promise admittance of any Chinese Communist reporters—indicated a sudden reversal of U. S. policy on the point of admitting red reporters from China.

The original announcement of the decision to grant permission for American reporters to go to Red China had been specific on the point of no reciprocity.

Under questioning Dulles declined to become involved in a discussion of German policies related to the coming Sept. 15 general elections. Specifically, Dulles declined to back the re-election bid of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer lest any such move be interpreted as interference.

PEIPING, China, (UP)—Touring American youths yesterday met another American who came to Peiping the hard way. Captured in the Korean war, he is now a Peiping university student.

He is Morris Wills, 24, of Fort Ann, Lake George, N. Y., who was taken prisoner at the 38th parallel in Korea in 1951.

Members of the American youth delegation in China paid a visit to Wills yesterday at Peiping university where he is a fulltime student of Chinese literature.

They dined together in the university cafeteria while Wills recounted his experiences and opinions of China.

"Before coming to China I had some primitive ideas about the Chinese people wearing pig tails and acting the way they are portrayed in movies and comic strips," Wills said.

"I like it here and like the people," he said. "I want to complete my studies."

While talking, Wills ate his food with a large fork instead of the traditional chopsticks.

"I never did learn to use them," he explained. "I like some types of Chinese food but not all."

"I still eat American food and dress as western as possible," Eugene Bernstein, 24-year-old student from New York City on the American youth tour, asked Wills if the Chinese feel any hostility toward Americans.

"No—not toward the average American," he replied. "But they don't like the American government's policy toward socialist countries."

The young Ex-GI, taken prisoner by the Chinese when he was only 18, expressed the opinion that many improvements affecting the life of the ordinary citizen have taken place since his arrival—especially in food, dress, construction and a rise in industrial capacity.

In support of his claims, Wills said "the Chinese make their own cars, and planes now."

Asked whether he wants to return to the United States and when, he said, "Well, I get a little homesick one in a while but I have no definite plans for returning right now."

"I'll return only after finishing my studies," he said.

"I miss the physical comforts but aside from that, not much," Fred Crab, 22, another American tourist from Alexandria, Va., asked Wills if he is afraid to return to America.

"They (the Chinese) won't do anything to us," Wills replied. By "us" he referred to himself and 10 other Ex-GIs now studying in China.

As regards the United States, "We already have dishonorable discharges and the Supreme Court decided if you have a discharge you can't be tried again."

Wills welcomed the visit of the 41 Americans to China.

"There have been quite a few Americans coming and going and I believe all this talk at home is just to scare Americans from coming," he said.

Situation in Syria Reviewed With Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower reviewed the situation in Syria with Republican congressional leaders today. Afterward Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) sized up the picture told newsmen the matter of pro-Communist developments in Syria was brought up by one of the GOP leaders at their regular Tuesday morning conference with Eisenhower.

Without going into any detail regarding the discussion, Knowland reported that Eisenhower made a frank report on "the current situation in the Middle East," particularly with respect to Syria.

Asked whether the situation in Syria can be regarded as grave, Knowland replied:

"It certainly is a serious problem which has developed out there and no one knows what ultimate developments may ensue."

Replying said Eisenhower views the Syrian situation as an example of need for flexibility in operation of this government's foreign aid program.

Aid Foes Will Try to Wipe Out Increase

WASHINGTON (UP)—Congressional Republican leaders reported today after a White House conference that President Eisenhower is "satisfied" with the $3,025,000,000 in new foreign aid funds recommended by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland predicted to the President that the Senate will approve this figure but a compromise reduction may be necessary when the appropriation bill goes to a House-Senate conference.

The Senate was driving for a vote by nightfall on the foreign aid measure.

Eisenhower cited Communist gains in Syria as proof of the need for a large and long-range mutual security program.

Knowland said the President recognized existing legislative problems and conceded that the figure recommended by the Senate Appropriations Committee was the most he could expect.

Knowland said the President wanted a bigger aid appropriation but "he can't do the job by these funds until Congress reconvenes in January."

Asked if this indicated a request early next year for a deficiency foreign aid appropriation, Knowland said if the final amount of the bill and world conditions warrant it, he could envision "the President's going to Congress."

It was Mrs. Patterson.

Neither was seriously injured.

Reports Reds Have Experts Inside Syria

LONDON (AP)—Diplomatic sources in London estimated today the Russians have 350 military advisers in Syria.

The diplomatic sources said Russia also is reported to have sent $3 million dollars worth of arms to the Arab nation. They said this was in addition to previous shipments worth 50 million dollars prior to last fall's invasion of Suez.

The sources said Syria's "stockpile of Russian arms now includes 200 T34 tanks, 50 self-propelled guns, 200 armored troops carriers, 120 122mm field guns, 60 anti-aircraft guns, 70 MIG15 and MIG17 fighter planes and an unspecified number of motor torpedo boats."

They said more Communist arms, including two submarines and 120 more planes, are expected to be sent to Syria as a result of the visit of Syrian Defense Minister Khaldat al Azem to Moscow earlier this month.

American officials meanwhile were reported urging that Britain supply Jordan with powerful 52-lb. anti-aircraft guns to meet a Jordanian request for heavy tanks and small arms.

Faubus Finally Convinced — No Special Session

By LEON HATCH

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval Faubus today said he had decided against calling a special session of the Legislature "at this time" to attempt to help solve the Highway Department's current financial shortage.

And, the governor said he would not agree a special legislative session on the fact that the Highway Department "has found that its financial crisis is not as severe or as acute as it was first thought to be."

The refusal to be a party to the proposed transfer was based, Faubus said, on an opinion of a New York attorney, David M. Wood.

Woods is the lawyer who in 1941 approved the Arkansas Highway Fund Refunding Act under which most money involved has accumulated.

Faubus issued a 3-page formal statement announcing his decision and also released copies of a lengthy opinion from Wood in which the lawyer said he could not concur in a suggestion that there is a surplus in the state treasury for highway construction.

"On the contrary," Wood wrote, he believed that all money in the fund is "dedicated solely" to the payment of principal and interest on the 1941 refunding bonds.

The Highway Commission in mid-July said that it was facing a financial tight which in normal course would not right itself until state construction money began to accumulate in sizeable amounts later this year.

The commission first said it was not sure that it could pay contractors all amounts due them on work in progress after Aug. 15, but later this "cutoff" date was deferred to Sept. 15 and still later.

Evans Boys Make Pines Reap Harvest

A natural seeded acre of pine produced trees valued at $6.30 per acre for each year since the land was in cotton in 1943 for 4-H Club members Gene and Lynn Evans of Columbus 4-H Club.

At a field day demonstration this spring showed the 9.5 cords pulpwood valued at $6.00 and the greatly improved stand of pine in the plantation with a calculated volume of 14 cords valued at $66.00.

"It took 13 years to produce the Evans boys pine plantation, but it all can be destroyed in about ten minutes," said McNab Community 4-H Club leader and Forest Ranger of the Arkansas State Forestry Commission, L. E. Young, in presenting a forest fire prevention.

At the B. J. ### AFL-CIO Files New Charges Against Hoffa

WASHINGTON (UP)—The AFL-CIO's Ethical Practices Committee today filed a new set of charges against Teamsters Union Vice President James R. Hoffa.

The committee said the charges were based primarily on evidence against Hoffa uncovered by the Senate Rackets Committee. Hoffa testified four days before the committee last week.

The charges against Hoffa and other high Teamster officials previously named will be aired at a hearing late next week in Washington. The charges were not made public.

An AFL-CIO source said that some allegations other than those made by Senate investigators are included in the committee's evidence against Hoffa, held apparent to the presidency of the nation's largest single union.

At a hearing May 6, Teamster President Dave Beck and Vice Presidents Frank Brewster and Sidney Brennan were named by the AFL-CIO as responsible for corruption in the union.

A supplemental report, not made public, was issued to the Teamsters on July 24.

The Teamsters could face expulsion from the AFL-CIO if they fail to follow clean-up directives expected to be issued by the federation.

The Teamsters executive board is currently meeting in Los Angeles to decide what to do about the clean-up orders.

The new charges against Hoffa were announced shortly before the ethical practices committee began hearings on alleged corruption in the United Textile Workers (UTW), Committee Chairman Al J. Hayes, and Jacob Potofsky, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, sat as a two-man committee.

Clubs Selling Tickets to Benefit Game

More than likely sometime today, tomorrow or Thursday, a teenager will approach you and ask you to buy a ticket to the Lions-Kiwanis softball game to be played at K-park Thursday night, August 29th.

These teenagers are doing their part, in selling these tickets, to help get the new Youth Center building fund growing. This building, to be erected in the Hope Fair Park, will be one of the finest to be found anywhere and will be a creditable asset to Hope. Plans are being studied now and will be released to the general public in the near future.

Back to the ball game; the Lions defeated the Kiwanis 16 to 12 last Tuesday night and this game coming up promises to be a grudge deal from the first inning. Both clubs will field every available player, giving every member a chance to play. This will assure both sides of getting maximum strength in their line-ups.

Game time is 7:30 p. m. Remember, your paid admission to this game will go for the youth of our community. . . . have fun with us and support a worthy cause.

was postponed indefinitely. The commission said that it was able to do this because of a speed-up in payment of federal reimbursement money and because of a drastic reduction in maintenance work.

After the July announcement, Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett, in reply to a question from two members of the Legislature, said a fund set up in the treasury as a cushion for bond requirements had a surplus of about three million dollars and that under the law this surplus could be transferred to the highway construction fund.

Faubus said at the time that he was not certain whether this could be done without legislative action and others familiar with circumstances surrounding the issue disagreed with Bennett.

There were suggestions that a special legislative session be called but until today Faubus had not taken a definite stand. He disclosed in today's announcement that a committee representing him had gone to New York to confer with Wood.

It was as a result of this visit that the Wood opinion, in the form of a letter to the governor, was issued. The letter was dated Aug. 21.

The committee was composed of Frank Storey, secretary of the state Board of Finance, of which Faubus is chairman; Little Rock early next year with a special request.

WASHINGTON 19—Foreign aid opponents mobilized for an uphill fight today to try to wipe out a $500,000,000 increase over House appropriations or military and economic aid abroad.

These forces headed by Senators Ellender (D-La.) and Russell (D-Ga.) made their stand against the united opposition of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California.

The Senate Appropriations Committee yesterday voted 14-7 for a bill carrying $3,602,710,000 in new and reappropriated money for this fiscal year which began July 1.

This figure was $308,760,000 below the ceilings in the recently enacted authorization bill, and $747,500,000 under the $4,440,210,000 Eisenhower originally asked in new and reappropriated money.

1 sustained by the Senate the committee's total would be subject to further cuts in a conference with the House.

Indications are the compromise might end up about midway between House and Senate totals.

Rep. Passman (D-La.), who would be a leading House member committee, served notice that he will fight for a sizable cut below the indicated Senate figure.

Passman told a newsman that since the House voted by a 2-1 margin on its bill it won't agree to go much higher. He suggested that the House conferees might okay or less, because of adjournment pressure.

"If we should recede any substantial amount the House would knock us down flat," Passman said. "The House is just not in that mood" to okay higher foreign spending.

Ellender said he would counter his main fight in the Senate against a committee recommendation or an increase of 225 million dollars, to $1,475,000,000, in new appropriations or military aid planes, tanks, guns and other military hardware.

Peiping university's team. "It's not because I'm so good but because most Chinese are shorter than me," Wills explained.

He is 6 feet 2 inches tall.

The American visitors wanted to know what romantic life is like in China.

"Chinese girls—and men—are more bashful than American ones," Wills answered. "It just takes a little longer to get acquainted with them."

Wills' tuition, board and expenses are paid by the Chinese Red Cross. He and the American visitors sat talking long after their dinner of roast Peking duck, stewed beef and bamboo shoots with ham, butter shrimp and other delicacies was finished.

Mills posed for photographers and newsreel men accompanying the American tour. The Americans are leaving Peiping Thursday to visit other Chinese cities including Changchun, Dairen, Tientsin and Wuhan.

DOROTHY DIX

Don't Despair! Copycats Are Just Flattering You

Dear Dorothy Dix: In the several years I have been housekeeping, I have acquired quite a reputation as cook, decorator and hostess. I don't want to seem boastful but much is the case. I am always willing to help other homemakers and am often asked for advice and suggestions. Frequently I find that instead of adapting my ideas to their own use, they lift them bodily, copying entire table decorations, passing off my recipes as their own, etc.

Since I put so much time and effort into planning menus, decorations, special dishes and party ideas, it seems unfair for someone else to use them so heedlessly. I don't want to seem small, but would like your opinion.

VELMA T.
Dear Velma: Please keep a few special thoughts in mind, and you will no longer be annoyed by imitation. You are gifted with a flair for cookery and an artistic temperament that few people have.

Anyone with a special gift should be happy to share it; in fact, in my opinion they are obligated to share it. God has given these accomplishments to the few for the benefit of many. If a table decoration of yours is copied, you have the ability to create more. The people you entertain know that you have special accomplishments; they appreciate the foods you serve, the manner in which you serve it. They overwhelm you with compliments. Isn't that enough? Couple your talents with generosity for the fullest measure of satisfaction.

As a further gesture, why not offer your services as a teacher in cooking and table decoration to the Girl Scouts, the P. T. A., or a neighborhood settlement house? Setting your ideas as models for others to follow will be a source of gratification and enjoyment for you.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My bride of eight months wants to visit her sister for a few days. I'm not willing for her to go; I hate to leave her even to go to work. I think she's unreasonable.

ED
Dear Ed: Let her go. Absence makes the heart grow fonder, you know. A short separation will make you both more appreciative of the other.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have a terrible crush on a radio announcer. He has a program that invites listeners to call in, we have had several telephone conversations. He talks to me as if I were his best friend. I know he's about my age and single. What do I do about it?

Dear Elvira: You are just one of a horde of impressionable young ladies with a crush on the guy. His personality is his stock in trade, and talking nice to listeners, part of his job. I gather he's very good at it. If you can't treat your phone calls more impersonally, stop them.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have just returned from service. While I was away I corresponded with two girls one in the west, one in the east. The easterner wants me to marry her; so do her folks and mine. However, the gal out west is the one I love. Should I wait for her or follow my folks' wishes?

JACK
Dear Jack: Last I heard there was marvelous trans-continental plane service which would get you to your love in a few hours. If you love her, board the next plane.

Maj. Gen. Harry P. Storke, motion as to the nature of the mistreatment and extent of any injuries would be made public when investigators completed their work.

The official announcement said the commander of the trainees company and eight enlisted men are under suspicion. It added that sufficient evidence had been gathered to recommend a court-martial.

Three of the enlisted men were confined to quarters. The officer, Capt. John Webb, was transferred to a post in which he commands no troops, the statement said.

One of the investigators termed the injuries "slight."

To Protect Integrated Students

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Police protection will be demanded for Negro students entering Little Rock and North Little Rock schools for the first time next week, a Negro publisher said last night after an "educational" Negro PTA meeting here.

"We think it is the responsibility of those in high office to see that integration works peacefully and orderly," said C. H. Jones, editor and publisher of the Southern Mediator-Journal.

Jones estimated that about 350 persons, including a handful of school children, attended the meeting, which was designed to "educate" Negroes about impending integration in both cities. A newspaper reporter said about 200 persons were present.

"We don't anticipate violence," Jones said after the meeting. But just to make certain, he added, a committee has been selected to discuss the matter with the Little Rock school board and various police officials.

Supl. Virgil Blossom of Little Rock and Wayne Upton, a member of the school board here, attended the session.

Blossom told the audience that the school board's gradual integration program here was made in "good faith." He said the Negro panelists were "effectively expressing the responsibility you face as students and adults."

Prospective Negro students were advised by other speakers to be scholarly, ignore slurring remarks, behave correctly and keep "clean in body and mind."

Two Negro girls who were students at Fayetteville High School said Negro students had nothing to fear from whites if they conducted themselves properly.

Jones predicted that in addition to five Negroes who already have enrolled in a North Little Rock White high school "possibly at least eight more" will register for the fall term.

He said the Little Rock School Board "is supposed to have screened 12 students according to my knowledge" but that 25 Negroes eventually may register for September classes. None have done so yet.

Asked for elaboration on the purported screening of prospective Negro students, Jones said:

"It seems to be something they adopted. They screen some of the higher type students. I go along with that part of it since on the basis of graduation we should select the best qualified."

Find Bullet Riddled Body of Arkansan

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—The bullet-riddled body of J. E. Mills, 61-year-old pipefitter formerly of El Dorado, Ark., was found in a trash dump here yesterday.

Officers were attempting to trace the movements of Mills, who had resided here several months.

The coroner said Mills probably was robbed. He was beaten about the head and face, Coroner Chester A. Williams said. He passed time of death between 10 p.m. and midnight Saturday night.

Dr. Williams said the bullet appeared to be from a .38 caliber automatic pistol.

Mills' survivors include the widow of El Dorado.

Maybe There Is to Be American Race After All

By ED WILKS

The Associated Press
Maybe there is going to be a race in the American League after all. The New York Yankees look bad and Manager Casey Stengel looks nervous.

Faced by a three-game showdown against the Chicago White Sox opening tonight in Comiskey Park, O'Casey played a hunch and came off second best in Detroit yesterday as the Tigers cracked the Yankees 5-2 and whitened their lead to 3½ games. It was New York's fifth defeat in seven games.

Which means the second-place White Sox, who have won six straight, can edge within three percentage points of the champs — if they can sweep the three-game set.

Only one other AL game was scheduled yesterday and as far as the A's are concerned it shuttled in Kansas City. Boston bopped 'em 16-0.

In the National, Milwaukee's Braves slipped to a seven-game edge over idle St. Louis and Brooklyn in a 4-3 defeat at Philadelphia. That gave the Phils sole possession of fourth place as the New York Giants clubbed Cincinnati to fifth 17-3.

Stengel, with pitching worries aplenty, started southpaw Tommy Byrne against the Tigers. But when the veteran hit a batter, walked another, gave up a home run to slugging Al Kaline and walked another, gave up a home run to slugging Al Kaline and walked the next man, Casey called it quits and called in young Johnny Kucks in the first.

Kucks did all right, giving up two runs on six hits the rest of the way, but it was too late. After Frank Lary gave up Mickey Mantle's two-run 33rd homer in the first, the Tiger right-hander blanked the Yanks on seven hits. Casey gambled in using Kucks, and not waiting out the usually wild Byrne, and lost a starter for the Chicago series.

Kaline's homer was his 17th in the two-game Detroit sweep and helped push him to .300 for the first time since June. Mantle's average also went up, but at .377 he stayed two points back of Boston's Ted Williams, who was 2-for-4 for .379.

The Phils blew a 3-0 lead before beating the Braves on Ron Northey's pinch bases-loaded single in the ninth. Ed Matthews' two-run single had tied it for Milwaukee in the eighth and when Wes Covington and Bob Hazle swung to open the ninth, 10-game winner Jack Sanford hit the show-ers. Dick Farrell relieved and retired the side for his sixth victory. Ernie Johnson lost it in relief.

Boston rapped six home runs, two by Frank Malzone, and bunched four of them in a 10-run seventh inning. Willard Nixon claimed his first shutout in more than a year with five-hit, while the Red Sox smacked 19.

The Giants also had 19 hits, but only two homers — by Danny O'Connell and Hank Sauer. The Redlegs, losing 13 of 14, had 13 hits for a two-team total of 32, a season high for a nine-inning game in the NL.

Robinson Must Fight or Give Up His Title

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — While money man Jim Norris lay in a hospital bed, Sugar Ray Robinson hinted today that he was ready to go through with his middleweight championship defense against Carmen Basilio Sept. 23.

"I have high hopes that we will come to some understanding," said Robinson, who has been feuding with Norris' International Boxing Club over the question of theater TV.

Truman Gibson, IBC secretary, confirmed that Robinson said he wanted to make a deal.

"If he is sincere," said Gibson, "I think we can reach some agreement in a few days."

The IBC signed with Theater Network Television. Robinson claimed he could make more money if the theater TV rights were awarded to Teleprompter, a rival of TNT. He maintained that, according to his contract with the IBC, no theater TV agreements were to be signed without his consent.

He was not consulted before the IBC signed with TNT, he said.

"But right now my main concern is for Jim's welfare," Sugar Ray added. "I'm sure everything will be all right. Perhaps we can combine the theaters of the two companies."

Norris was stricken with food poisoning yesterday just as he was about to go into conference with Robinson in an effort to reach an agreement. He was hospitalized and will be kept under observation for a couple of days, according to Dr. Vincent Nardicello of the New York State Athletic Commission.

"He has been under a great nervous strain," commented Dr. Nardicello.

Minnesota to Challenge Iowa Griders

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — Minnesota, with an all-veteran starting lineup headed by All America candidate Bobby Cox, is all set to challenge Iowa's defending champions in the upcoming Big Ten football race.

Right along with the Gophers and Hawkeyes will be Michigan State and Northwestern appear as darkhorses, ready to step in if any of the other contenders falter.

That seems to be the situation as the Western Conference prepares to open another campaign with most of the teams scheduled to start drills Saturday.

Last year Iowa was expected to be an also ran. Instead Coach Forrest Evashevski's crew won the title and went on to defeat Oregon State in the Rose Bowl.

This year, Illinois, Purdue, Wisconsin and Indiana fall into the "also ran" category.

Iowa is the team to beat. The Hawkeyes lost quarterback Ken Plohn and Frank Gilliam, but they have 21 lettermen returning.

Murray Warmath has 27 lettermen returning at Minnesota and is better than two-deep at every position. Cox, rated one of the country's best split-T quarterbacks, will be backed by Dick Larson, also a letter winner.

Michigan State could go all the way if the Spartans aren't hit by another injury bug. Considered a sure bet last season, Michigan State finished the campaign with eight regular sidelined by injury.

Coach Duffy Daugherty has 27 letter winners, including halfbacks Walt Kowalczyk and Blanche Martin, center Dan Currie, tackle Pat Burke, ends Tony Kolodziej and Dave Kaiser. Four of the 1935 Rose Bowl champions — and fullback Dan Gilbert.

THE CANVAS DAGGER

by HELEN REILLY

There was something unhappy about that hat.

THE STORY: Police discount the statement of Sarah Casement that someone was in the room with painter Grant Melville prior to his plunge from his fourth floor studio window to the street below.

CHAPTER II

There was one small sequel that had nothing to do directly with Grant Melville's demise but which was not unnatural under the circumstances. On the night of the same day Melville was killed the Melville house was entered by an intruder via the roof. Mrs. Melville came in from Long Island at shortly after nine o'clock, accompanied by a parlormaid and a cook. Going up to her bedroom on the top floor the maid surprised a burglar scrambling up the ladder and through the trap door at the top of the stairs. All she saw were his legs disappearing above through the hole in the roof, then the trap door slammed shut.

Examination showed that this trap door had been broken open from the outside. The door had been fastened securely on the inside when the police were in the house in the afternoon, so no one could have escaped by that route then. What had happened was that some opportunist, figuring the house was empty, had forced an entrance intending to do a little job of removing valuables while the coast was clear. The prowler made his escape across a succession of roofs after he was surprised by the housemaid. Nothing had been taken.

It didn't occur to anyone then to check the paint on the canvas propped on the easel in the studio, the canvas on which the story had been received had rocked her back on her heels. It was incredible to her that her word should be doubted. She had no need to grind, no possible reason for lying. She knew what she had seen in the studio of the red house on Tenth Street. There had been someone there with the painter. Shadows didn't cast themselves out of nothingness; the studio door hadn't opened of itself nor closed by itself when Melville was hurtling through space to the pavement.

Sarah Casement tried to put Grant Melville out of her mind, forget the terrible sight of that falling body. The attempt was a failure. She thought of the man in the mustard-colored smock morning, noon and night, lunching in offices dining out, listening to music, in the middle of a conversation with someone, watching qualifications. Call GR 6-35138 for further details and interview.

She turned the card over and read the rest of Peter's message. "Try this on for size. GR 6-35138 is Grant Melville's widow. She wants a biography of the late Grant done. Off to the Bahamas. See you when I get back. Yours, Gary. It is as you may, Peter."

Sarah smiled and the flowers fit water thoughtfully and carried them into the living room, her mind busy with the clipping. So Mrs. Melville was going to have a biography of her husband done. To write a biography you had to be given access to all the subject's papers, records, the details of his private life. It was a pity she wasn't a writer. You couldn't count six months as a newspaper correspondent when you were 20 or the stuff she did now as willing, could you it didn't matter. Peter had presented her with an opportunity of seeing the dead man's wife, and the inside of the house where Melville had lived. Then and there she decided to take advantage of it, unless the job was already filled.

She went to the phone.

Sarah walked from her apartment to Tenth Street on the following morning. She had abandoned her polo coat, and she wore her navy suit, navy pumps and the blond mink sling she had bought in a moment of madness. According to Jim Deniston, Mrs. Grant Melville's contact with art in the rarified region where the subject would appear at his or her soft-focus best aided and abetted by aristocratic dogs, white satin draperies and im country house vistas complete with cypresses.

The advertisement itself was revealing. Mrs. Melville couldn't be very bright. If money was no object she should have approached various name people for the project she had in mind—an ace would scarcely ring her bell to undertake an obscure writing assignment on a little-known and unimportant man. But then she might simply be uninterested.

She mounted the steps and rang the bell. A tidy maid in uniform opened the white door. Sarah gave her name and the maid said, "Yes, miss. Mrs. Melville is interviewing now. Will you come this way, please."

On the second landing the maid opened a door into a small sitting room. She crossed the room, knocked at a closed door on the far side, opened it, murmured, "Miss Casement is here," and withdrew her head and her presence. Sarah went over to the window. Thinking about a thing, was different from doing it. She was vaguely uneasy. It was a little like having an appointment with a very expensive dentist. The room around her was bright with lamps and tulip printed curtains. It looked out on a back court full of gray shadows, a damp, distant place remote from cushioned warmth and scented comfort. The courtyard

Pitching Now a Chore for Robin Roberts

By JOE REICHLER

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pitching, once so easy and so much fun, has become a chore and a challenge to Robin Roberts.

In the throes of a horrendous season, the former mainstay of the Philadelphia Phillies admitted today he may have lost some of the stuff that used to overpower the hitters. But he scoffed at widespread reports that he was all through as a top flight hurler.

"Me washed up! I should say not," he replied. "For a guy with an 8-18 record, this may sound like sour grapes but I know I can still win. And I'm sure I can go on winning for several years yet. And I'll prove it when I get another chance."

Although still not fully recovered from the shock of his demotion to the bullpen, the six-time 20-game winner declared he held no grudge against Manager Mayo Smith for his dramatic decision.

"Sure it's hard to take, and I suppose it dents my pride somewhat," said Roberts, trying to hide the hurt look in his eyes. "But what else could he do? I had to do it for his own good and for the good of the team," said Mayo. "The man is bewildered. Maybe he'll find himself after a whirl in the bullpen."

below was walled by gray boarding. A door in the left wall led into the alley at the side. Escape by that route would have been easy.

A man's hat lay on a table beside a vase of chrysanthemums. There was something unhappy about the hat, merrily shone upon by moonlight, heartlessly in competition with polished cherry wood and arching flowers. It looked old and stained and unsuccessful. The owner of the hat was evidently with Mrs. Melville.

The maid conducted two more people into the room. The first was a thin, arty woman with an intense expression and iron-gray hair in bangs, her feet forthright in oddly cut sandals, her ear lobes decorated with carved copper, her hands grasping a tooled leather bag with a great carved shield on it. She sank into a love seat and stared fiercely past Sarah, who thought, "I've seen her somewhere before."

The second person was a man, who crossed to the window and stood with his back to the room. The hand-tooled arty woman was someone to be expected. The man wasn't. He was tallish — around six feet — very well dressed, with a carefully assured manner, a strong dark face and attractive dark eyes.

I certainly hope so. But he's got to realize he needs help."

It is the contention of Smith and other veteran baseball men that Roberts must acquire a new pitch — such as a screwball, a knuckleball, a sinker — if he is to regain his niche as a big winner. Otherwise he is on the way down—and out.

Never one to sibi, the 30-year-old right-hander refused to blame his poor pitching on an injury or illness. He insisted he never felt better. "They just seem to be hitting my best pitches, that's all."

Everyone has been giving me advice and suggestions on what to do. But to me pitching is still a good fast ball, a curve and good control. When you've got those three you don't need anything else. I know some pitchers have trick pitches and they do all right with them. But that's not for me.

"Maybe I'm stubborn as they say I am. Maybe I've got false pride. But I'd prefer to believe it's conviction and determination, and belief in myself. Whatever it is, I've got to do things the way I see them."

Gibson, Hard Risk Amazing Doubles Streak

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Althea Gibson and Darlene Hard risked an amazing victory streak today in the finals of the National Doubles Tennis Tournament—weather permitting.

Althea, the 30-year-old Wimbledon queen from Harlem, and her blonde partner from California never had lost a match together going into today's title match against 11-time winners Louise Brough and Mrs. Margaret du Pont at Longwood.

The Gibson-Hard streak, started at Orange, N. J., last year, encompasses 37 matches over nine tournaments and a Wightman Cup victory.

The men's final sent 43-year-old Gardner Mulloy and 33-year-old Budgie Patty, also Wimbledon winners, against Australia's youthful team of Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser.

Originally set for Sunday, the finals twice have been postponed by rain.

Does Miss Gibson think that, at her age, she has reached the peak of her game?

"I feel I have reached a plateau of success," she replied, "but I also feel there are many plateaus above me which I can reach."

Althea said she has read reports about the fact she might turn professional but says she has made any offers to her.

"I am thinking of going into singing," she said. "It would not be in the immediate future. But many people have told me I have the basis for a career in singing."

Nixon Considers Visit to Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice-president Nixon is reported considering a good will visit to Western Europe as special representative of President Eisenhower some time this fall.

No firm decision to undertake such a tour has been made yet. But, Nixon is known to have discussed it in general terms with top Eisenhower administration officials.

Several Western European countries, including France, are reported to have expressed keen interest in a visit by Nixon after Congress adjourns. The French invited Nixon to visit Paris Sept. 5 for a celebration commemorating the 200th anniversary of the birth of Lafayette, the French patriot who helped the United States win its independence from Britain.

First Mexican Natural Gas for U.S. Cities

On August 22, a group of men gathered at Reynosa, Mexico, just across the Rio Grande from McAllen, Texas. A brief ceremony was held, and a valve was opened, starting the first major importation of natural gas from Mexico.

Soon, this gas will be heating homes and serving industry in a dozen or more Midwestern, Appalachian and Eastern Seaboard states. The gas will come from large fields in Northern Mexico tapped by Petroleos Mexicanos (Pemex).

Daily, some 115 million cubic feet of Mexican gas will move north through Texas Eastern's 5900-mile pipeline system... and (via facilities of the company's local client firms) into homes and plants as far north as New England.

By joining in utilizing this great natural resource, Texas Eastern and Pemex are making a signal contribution to the economies of both Mexico and the United States.

Through the sale of this gas, Pemex will receive an annual revenue of almost $6,000,000—initially. As the volume of deliveries goes up, so will the revenues.

Texas Eastern, through its 29-year Pemex contract, can assure its customers continuing and increasing supplies of natural gas. This in turn means that greater quantities of this clean, dependable and economical fuel can be made available to homes and industries in Midwestern, Appalachian and Eastern Seaboard States.
